PROHIBITION

Drinking anything that causes intoxication is bad. But this habit is widespread. Drunkards lose their power of reasoning and behave in an ugly manner. The habit leads to many diseases. Many families are financially ruined because of the drinking habit. Sometimes even deaths are the result.

The habit of drinking seems to have originated long ago. Even the epics mention this. We find in the Mahabharata how the Yadavas quarrel among themselves under the influence of drinking. There are many things that cause intoxication. Wine, beer and brandy are some of these. Poor people use drinks with cheaper ingredients. Native liquor is often consumed by the poor much to the detriment of their health. Some consume opium and other narcotics to increase the effect of wine. This habit is to be curbed. In public interest prohibition is to be strictly enforced. Sometimes deaths occur in large numbers because of spurious and adulterated liquor.
